

One room school houses now just a fond memory

Abandoned or renovated for other uses, county's old schools tell of days when life was simpler

by Sue Cooper

There was a time when life was simpler, uncomplicated compared to the problems of today. Years ago, the only problems a man had were to look after his family, his animals and his property. But this simpler life bred a hardy generation. A generation that would have to walk a mile or more to school. A generation that spent years learning the three R's. A generation in which most people ended their education after grade eight. And a generation that would remember fondly those old days of one room school houses.

Angus Coulter of Minden, Catherine Chambers of Haliburton and Marg Horsley of Maple Lake are all members of that generation.

The years seem to have been easier on Coulter, still spry at 83, than they have been on his old school house at Hindon Hill. The old school, about eight miles north of Minden on the Bobcaygeon Road, is now all but hidden by overgrown trees and bushes. The windows are boarded and it doesn't appear that students have graced its classroom for many years.

It was 1903 when Angus Coulter first walked the half a mile to the frame school house, but he was lucky. Some of his school mates had "a good three miles to go" before they reached the school.

In his early days living at Hindon Hill, Coulter attended school from May to the first of November because the children from Brady Lake couldn't make the trip in the winter-time and classes wouldn't have been large enough, Coulter said. The children were given a four week holiday in the summer.

"I never went to school in the winter, a day in my life," Coulter recalls. "The school was there, but that's all."

During the school months, Coulter remembers, the teacher stressed the basics. "Reading and writing and arithmetic was our big work all the time."

While arithmetic was one of the major studies, Coulter said he was never taught fractions during his schooling years.

In those days, children were not divided into grades but rather into progressive book categories, Coulter explained. On the first day of school a youngster would start on his first book and move on as his education skills increased.

"The third book was as far as I got," Coulter remembers.

But even being raised in the simple times when the older generation had little or no education, Coulter did have some respect for education.

"I wouldn't want to be a dumb bird," he laughs. Back then it was either a parent's or a child's prerogative to attend school with no laws to govern attendance and no one to monitor truancy even if there had been regulations.

"If you went it was alright and if you didn't it was alright," Coulter said. He chose to go. "I didn't miss school when it was on."

Board approves administrator jobs despite objections

The Haliburton County Board of Education has agreed to offer Sid Cooper and Gary Brohman the newly created administrative assistant positions at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School, despite the objections of three board trustees.

Lloyd Johnson, Ralph Young and Cheryl Murdoch registered nay votes to a motion to offer the jobs to Cooper and Brohman because they felt the decision had been made, in Johnson's words "by other than this board".

When the board decided to drop the position of vice principal at the school and create in its place two administrative assistant posts, the jobs were to have been open to any member of the staff at the school.

But newly appointed principal, Dale Robinson had made it a condition of accepting the job that the two men serve the initial two-year term as assistants, after which the job would be thrown open to competition among all teachers at the high school.

Hiring committee spokesman Derrell Stamp said the two had been approached by Robinson and asked if they would consider the job, and that the matter was to have been kept in confidence between the three men and the board. But said Stamp, "this was somehow common knowledge throughout the school" shortly after the committee completed interviews with Robinson and two other candidates for the principalship at the high school.

Since Cooper and Brohman had already been approached to take the administrative assistant positions, and the fact was known by many of the school's staff, the committee felt it "would be a futile effort" to go through the process of interviewing other teachers who may also have wanted an administrative assistant position, Stamp said. But he told the board at a meeting last Tuesday that Brohman and Cooper would still be interviewed by the committee to determine if they are willing to carry out the responsibilities that go with the administrative assistant job.

The plan angered trustee Lloyd Johnson, however.

"Isn't that a waste of time," he said. "The decision has already been made by other than this board."

Johnson said that two weeks before the board had agreed to hire Robinson as principal, a teacher at the

Abandonments should be avoided until thorough studies done

Provincial rail plan needed : report

A provincial task force on rail policy has recommended that rail line abandonments be "avoided" until studies of the importance of individual lines within a provincial rail network can be carried out. In a report entitled "The Future Role of Rail", the task force says Ontario should develop a master plan for its railways that would ensure the province's rail system can serve future needs.

The 125-page report, which took a year to complete, urges the government to take a long term view of rail transportation at odds with the current economic pressures faced by railway companies.

Topics of particular importance to Haliburton County addressed in the task force report include abandonments and the potential for tourism development linked to rail service.

The task force notes that rail lines have been abandoned and passenger and freight service discontinued with what it calls "depressing regularity", in the last 25 years.

"From a network of rail lines and passenger services which criss-crossed the province... Ontario's branch line system has dwindled to the point that further abandonments should be avoided," the report states.

"Where previous abandonment hearings were resolved on the basis of isolated evaluation, Ontario can no longer afford the luxury of such narrowly-focused considerations". Investigations of all existing and dormant branch lines should be carried out, according to the report, "in order to establish a policy position and justification for maintaining, abandoning or reactivating service in each case".

The future of each line should be considered "in relationship to the entire rail network" with a view to defining what the task force calls an "ideal" branch line network for Ontario. Municipalities would be asked to help in the planning process by "indicat(ing) the rail service they perceive as important to their communities, with a view to requesting the province to negotiate with the appropriate authorities for new, reinstated or supplementary rail services."

In cases where abandonments are considered, studies of the line's importance should also "include possible future needs in the areas of transportation, utility and transmission lines and recreational corridors for such sports as hiking, skiing and snowmobiling," the report

Two car crash on Hwy. 121 injures three, one seriously

A Guilford Township woman was rushed to Peterborough Civic Hospital last Thursday evening with unknown serious injuries after her car was hit, nearly head-on, on Highway 121 about two miles west of Haliburton Village.

Brenda Lee Ripley, 24, was headed east, near the Jehovah Witness Hall when her car collided with a westbound car driven by Phyllis Chuang, 25 of Haliburton Village. Chuang and her passenger, Robert Edward Luke, 32 of Minden, were treated for their injuries at Haliburton Hospital.

Ripley was driving a 1965 car while Chuang was operating a 1978 car.

Police have not released the cause of the accident as yet, but say charges may be pending.

Assessment increases reduce tax load Education levies rise an average of 13.5%

Education levies to municipalities will rise an average of 13.5 per cent this year to meet the local portion of the Haliburton County Board of Education's $5,934,610 budget. But because assessment has increased in all but two of the county's 10 municipalities, the average education tax increase for most property owners will be about 11 per cent.

The levies were adopted at a meeting of the board last Tuesday following the presentation of the 1980 financial statement in draft form.

The Ontario government will provide $2,260,476 for education in Haliburton County this year, an increase of 12.2 per cent over last year's grant. Municipal taxpayers will provide an additional $3,428,170, while $376,718 will come from tuition fees and other revenues paid to the board. Balance of the budget is shown as an under levy of $130,754.

Anson, Hindon and Minden's share of the overall municipal levy will rise by 13.9 per cent. Assessment has increased 2.3 per cent, however, resulting in an increase per $100 of education tax of $11.34.

Cardiff's increase is 10.4 per cent, but because of a marginal decline in overall assessment, Cardiff taxpayers will pay an additional $10.51 per $100 of education tax this year.

Dysart et al's levy will rise 13.7 per cent, but assessment is up 2.4 per cent, resulting in an education tax increase of $11.04 per $100 for Dysart property owners.

Glamorgan's levy will increase by 11.4 per cent, but assessment is up fractionally, and the dollar increase per $100 of education tax in that township will be $10.96.

Lutterworth's assessment has also risen this year, by 1.3 per cent, and as a result, its 12.4 per cent levy increase results in a $10.96 jump per $100 for ratepayers.

Monmouth's levy will rise by 22.1 per cent, but assessment is up by 10.5 per cent, resulting in a $10.50 increase per $100 of education tax.

Sherborne, McClintock and Livingstone's levy is up

14.6 per cent, but assessment is up 3.4 per cent, giving a dollar cost per $100 of $10.83.

Snowdon's levy increase for 1981 is 12.3 per cent, but since assessment in the township has increased by 1.2 per cent over the last year, taxpayers will see a $10.97 increase per $100 of education tax.

Stanhope's levy will increase by 12.7 per cent, but assessment is up by 1.6 per cent, and education taxes will be up $10.93 per $100 this year.

The Improvement District of Bicroft is the only county municipality in which assessment has declined significantly in the last year. It is down by 2.3 per cent, and as a result, its 8.9 per cent levy increase will result in an $11.92 increase per $100 of education tax.

Averaged across the county, the levy is up 13.5 per cent, assessments are up 2.2 per cent, and the increase per $100 of education tax is $11.06.

Grant support falls, taxpayers hit hard

Local taxpayers must bear an increasing portion of education costs because provincial grant support has not kept pace with rising costs, figures presented to the Haliburton County Board of Education indicate.

Business administrator Jim Leworthy presented an analysis of budget grants and levies at the board's meeting last Tuesday which shows that while the consumer price index has risen 120 per cent since 1972, education grants are up only 65 per cent. During the same period the board's budget has increased 122.2 per cent, and as a result of the difference between costs and grants, municipal levies have risen 174.1 per cent to meet the shortfall.

In 1972, the local board spent $2,671,123 to educate county children. This year it has projected expenditures of $5,934,610.

In 1972 the province contributed $1,370,078 in grants, or 51 per cent of the total budget, while municipal taxpayers contributed $1,250,620, or 47 per cent of the total budget. This year, the provincial grant stands at $2,260,476, which represents only 38 per cent of the board's budget. Municipal taxpayers will have to contribute $3,428,170 in 1981, or 58 per cent of the total budget.

The figures indicate the extent to which the provincial government has carried out its policy of shifting an increasing share of the cost of education back to local taxpayers.

The trend is especially evident over the last five years, according to the business administrator's analysis. Since 1977, the consumer price index has risen 45.7 per cent and the board's budget

BIA board set, will begin plans for Minden core

Minden businessmen may have a chance to vote on the future of the village's downtown core if the Business Improvement Area (BIA) board can organize a meeting for this week, board chairman, Gord Monk said Tuesday.

With the appointment of the board earlier last month the village's BIA program formally got off the ground. At a meeting last Thursday night board members were appointed to head committees and it looks like the project is moving ahead,

The car was demolished in a near-head-on collision on highway 121 last Thursday. The driver, Brenda Lee Ripley, of Guilford Township was taken to Peterborough Civic hospital with undetermined serious injuries.

When Gerald Hutchings' truck ran out of gas on the Pine Street hill, he never expected this would happen. The truck apparently rolled back down the hill and into the ditch near the Victoria Street School playground.

Hutchings who was not in the vehicle at the time was uninjured. Here, Gary Rowden attempts to pull the truck out.

school told him there was no point in applying for an administrative assistant position, because the decision about who would fill the jobs had already been made.

Trustee Len Salvatori agreed with Johnson's concern about the way in which the situation had been handled.

"I didn't like the way it was done either," he said. "It was supposed to be kept secret between the three individuals and the board."

Trustee Cheryl Murdoch pointed out that offering the jobs to the two men was "part of the package" which Robinson brought to the bargaining table, but that "we didn't like the whole package".

But Stamp reiterated that it was too late to go through the process of interviewing other teachers because Brohman and Cooper had already been approached.

Board chairman, Ross Anderson agreed that in view of the situation, "it would be hypocritical" to conduct open interviews.

Trustee Cheryl Murdoch asked what would happen if the board turned down the proposed appointments of Cooper and Brohman, but Director of Education J. Douglas Hodgson replied that the appointments could not be vetoed because in hiring Robinson the board had accepted his condition that the job be offered to the two.

"He made the commitment to those two people; that's the problem," Salvatori commented.

In the end the board agreed to offer the jobs to Cooper and Brohman despite the fact that Johnson, Murdoch and Young registered objections to the way the situation had been handled.

The administrative assistant jobs carried with them a reduced teaching load and a responsibility bonus of $2000 per year. At the end of the initial two-year term, the jobs are to be given to two other teachers in the school.

While the response to the idea seems good, Brown said the parents seem to feel the schools should take the initiative to keep the parents aware of policies and programs they could help with.

"They're asking the schools 'Are you going to involve the parents in a meaningful way?' Brown said.

As a result of the meetings, the steering committee will make recommendations and suggestions to the board of education within the month, Brown said.

As the program now stands, meetings have been held in the three schools but no executives were elected to represent the parents. Because of the small populations in the area schools, Brown said it might be more worthwhile to have one representative from each school to sit on a larger board if an association is formed.

In the meantime, the steering committee is planning an information night concerning drugs for this fall. The evening will be co-sponsored by the teachers federation, Brown said.

Parents also expressed an interest in the information meetings with the principals and school board members and Brown said another evening might be scheduled with teachers as the guest speakers.

"There seems to be a lot of interest," she said. Although the future of the parents' association is undecided as yet and may be for some time, Brown said both the school system and the parents appear to want more interaction.

Dysart et al won't be getting a full time recreation director this year, but the municipality will have a seasonal recreational co-ordinator.

Council and the recreation committee have agreed to hire Karen Thompson from May 11 to Labour Day to establish and coordinate recreational activities this summer.

Thompson is presently working for the Ministry of Natural Resources, according to reeve Murray Fearrey, and has been involved with recreational programs at the Frost Centre.

A student is expected to be hired to assist Thompson in her duties.

Thompson will be meeting with representatives of the West Guilford and Harcourt recreation committees to discuss needs in these communities shortly after assuming her duties, the reeve said.

County council holds April meeting

At the April meeting of Haliburton County council, the following matters were considered:

Council did not concur with the resolution of the County of Grey to hold a 7 per cent guidelines on the increase in ordinary needs for all recipients of G.W.A.

Council did not concur with the resolution from the County of Grey requesting that municipalities have the authority in determining the amount of assistance paid under the General Welfare Act. J. Harrison voted nay.

Council supported the objections of the United Townships of Sherborne, McClintock and Livingstone to Bell Canada application for increased rates in view of unfilled promises.

Budget committee chairman Jim Harrison gave a brief report on discussions and recommendations of the budget committee.

The fee for an auctioneer's licence was increased to $25 per year commencing 1981, in accordance with resolution passed by the budget committee, March 8, 1981 and incorporated into the budget as approved; and the fine for exercising the calling of auctioneer without a licence will be increased to $50.

Dennis Waymouth of Silver Springs Lodge on County Road #10 addressed County Council and emphasized the various reasons why the county should not expropriate land on that road.

By-law 1134, a by-law to approve an expropriation for the reconstruction of a county road, was passed.

The county road report was given by County Engineer

Bill Obee, followed by a synopsis of the memorandum of agreement between the county and C.U.P.E. Local 1960 given by chairman Keith Tallman.

The collective agreement between the Provisional County of Haliburton and Canadian Union of Public Employees Local 1960 was ratified in accordance with Memorandum of Agreement dated March 23, 1981.

The county employee benefit by-law was adjusted to correspond with the current collective agreement.

County Council confirmed approval of renewal for one year from March 1, 1981 the agreement with Dr. Jeffrey Lodenquai as Home Physician for Hyland Crest Senior Citizens' Home.

A report from the Haliburton County Economic Development Commission was circulated to all members.

The following committee reports were given: H.K.P.R. District Health Unit - representative K. Tallman; Children's Aid Society - representative M. Amm; Children's Services - representative G. Lewis.

Parents want to be involved in education, group discovers

After a series of meetings with county parents, teachers, principals and school board representatives, the steering committee for a parents' association has found that parents want to be involved in the education of their children.

"There aren't a lot of complaints but they (parents) are looking to participate," Belinda Brown, a member of the committee said Tuesday.

In the past few months meetings have been held at Archie Stouffer Public School in Minden, Haliburton Highlands Senior Elementary School and Victoria Street School in Haliburton Village, to try to determine if parents wish to form a formal parents' association, Brown said.

While the response to the idea seems good, Brown said the parents seem to feel the schools should take the initiative to keep the parents aware of policies and programs they could help with.

"They're asking the schools 'Are you going to involve the parents in a meaningful way?' Brown said.

As a result of the meetings, the steering committee will make recommendations and suggestions to the board of education within the month, Brown said.

states. Abandoned right-of-ways with what the task force calls "a near term future use" should be retained by the railways, while all others "should be transferred to the province for a nominal sum". The government could then set up a rights-of-way management program, according to the task force, and in cases where the right-of-way passes through municipalities, could assist local councils in making the best use of the land.

The task force report also touches on the relationship between rail transportation and the tourism industry, a matter of some significance to the Haliburton area, because a proposed steam tourist excursion on the Lindsay-Haliburton line remains under consideration pending the outcome of an abandonment hearing.

According to the report "the province should actively support the use of rail transportation to a given recreation destination" wherever that service can be shown to be either self-sustaining, or of sufficient additional benefit to the provincial economy to justify financial contribution to the service.

In the case of the proposed Lindsay-Haliburton excursion, a feasibility study has shown that the line could be self-sustaining after two years if the initial capital outlay of up to one million dollars does not have to be recovered.

BIA board to begin planning

Monk said. Appointed to head the following committees were Stu Brandon, co-ordinator of committees; Jerry Pilsworth, beautification and restoration; Ron Wrightman, communication and public relations; while Brandon, Monk and Joe Shapira will sit on the budget committee.

The committee chairman will be appointing committee members from the businessmen in the improvement area, Monk said.

Now that the committees have been established, Monk said the board has discussed some projects but the general membership of the BIA will have to vote on the direction the town should take. A meeting now being planned will probably deal with the selection of a specific project, Monk said.

"We're in the process of trying to decide what projects should have priority," he explained.

Up to now the board's main objective has been to determine improvements that should be made to make the downtown area more desirable place to shop, he said.

BIA board members have been assigned businessmen to contact to ensure good attendance at the meeting which is tentatively scheduled for this week, Monk said.

With nine grades in a room, teaching wasn't easy

Catherine Chambers began work at Carnarvon School in 1925 only taught about eight students a year, the school had many area youngsters cross its doorstep until it closed in the early 1940's.

The school Marg Horsley attended is also still standing but its location in the small hamlet of Gelert has saved it from falling into disrepair.

The old white frame school house, located on Highway 519 and larger than the Hindon Hill school, housed up to 52 students in those early years, Horsley said.

In 1914, when she started school, Gelert was a booming railroad town with stages and lumber wagons coming from Dorset, Minden and other western settlements in the county. Since her father worked for the railroad company, Horsley grew up in the station house which was just a short walk from the school. But the only building left to remind her of those days is the school.

"Everything's been torn down. It's not home to me anymore," she says from her home overlooking

Sleigh once took youngsters to school

Maple Lake.

Horsley has fond memories of "running through mud puddles" or having to follow someone in the winter because she was too short to wade through the deep snow to the school.

"I was very short and in the winter Dad or one of the track men used to go ahead of me. I'd follow behind," Horsley said.

In those days, girls didn't have the fortune of wearing a ski suit, Horsley said. They wore long knitted black socks that came up to mid-thigh with Indian type moccasins on their feet. "Oh, they were slippery things."

The girls were also hampered by their large skirts and layers of petticoats, she explained.

After a long winter's trip to school Horsley said "very often your underwear was as wet as you were."

After everyone had made their way to school in the morning the boys and girls entered through separate cloak rooms before they gathered around the warm wood stove, Horsley remembers.

When all the youngsters' bones were warmed by the fire, the teacher would put a record on the phonograph and the students would march in time to the music. Once the opening exercises were finished the day's school work would begin.

"Our primer (grade one) work was almost all phonics," Horsley said.

And while only one teacher was in charge of the eight grades there wasn't much mischief in the classroom.

"No one talked out loud, which is a switch," she said.

But there were moments of fun and mischief when the teacher wasn't looking. One of the favourite tricks the older boys used to play was to take a girl's long braids and nonchalantly dip the ends into the desk-top ink wells.

"Anything to create a bit of fun," Horsley laughs.

In the one-room school house days, most of the children's fun was in the school yard at recess time. Although there was no playground or physical education equipment the children made their own games and looked after one another, Horsley said.

"I don't ever remember any rowdiness," she recalled. "They were just too involved in having a good time."

Two of the big events that she remembers at the school were the Red Cross afternoons and the annual Christmas concert.

About once a month, the students would send invitations home to their parents to attend the much-enjoyed Red Cross afternoons. Horsley remembers the recitations and the songs that filled the afternoon of entertainment.

Then as winter wore on, the children spent the last three weeks of the year preparing for their Christmas concert.

"That was the biggest time of the year," Horsley said.

When the teacher began preparing the children's skits and songs for the annual concert, excitement would build for the big day.

The big highlight of the Christmas concert was always the appearance of Santa Claus, Horsley said.

"You'd hear him coming through the wood shed at the back. It was really good to see him." "We just enjoyed those Christmas concerts so much".

As the years passed, Horsley worked her way through the eight grades at Gelert and was given the change to continue her education at the secondary school in Minden. The secondary school, then divided into lower, middle and upper school, was only a stepping stone for her.

At 13 she left home in Gelert and travelled to Minden on the stage to board in town for the week. The old stage they travelled on was rigged with a wood stove inside and hot bricks would be placed at the passengers' feet to keep them warm. But Horsley does not have warm memories of those cold, long winter trips to Minden.

"Shoot, it (the stage) was no good. It'd tip over and over we'd go and out would go the bricks."

At the age of 16, Horsley finished middle school

(grade 12 equivalent) and headed to Lindsay Collegiate to study in upper school because she was too young to enrol in Normal School (Teachers College).

Although Horsley took the train to Lindsay and only commuted home once a month, she was unable to finish upper school because it was still in the experimental stages in Lindsay.

When her schooling was complete, Horsley returned to the town of Gelert and once again started walking to the one room school house where she had secured a job.

Catherine Chambers was also one of the early school teachers in Haliburton County's one room school houses. Although Chambers was raised in Stratford and was educated in a centralized modern school, she is linked to the older days through her early teaching years in the area.

Her school in Stratford, Romeo School, "was more modern than some of the schools I taught in up here".

In 1925, Chambers took her first job at the Carnarvon School with 42 pupils under her guidance. Although two teachers had turned down the job because of the size of the class, Chambers rolled up her sleeves and plunged head-first into the rural school life.

For teaching 42 students, you earned $800 a year

"You just went from one class to the other and gave them seat work. I was busy alright," she said.

In those early days at Carnarvon School, Chambers walked less than a mile to work and prepared the school for the children's morning classes.

Although the children had no playground equipment they sometimes brought their own ball to play with at recess time. That was the only time of the day that was directed toward physical education, Chambers said.

Teaching at the Carnarvon School was a satisfying occupation for Chambers who enjoyed working with the children. Although the hard work only paid $800 a year, she came back to the school after leaving to teach in Stratford for a few years.

When she returned the school was divided into two classes and Chambers agreed to teach again.

"You seemed to have your time full. It really was too much with the nine grades."

The days of one room school houses are gone in Haliburton County and today's educators do not mourn their passing. But for many of the county's older residents, the memories of those schools, at least, live on.

Taxpayers and local politicians concerned about rising education costs should take a close look at figures presented at a meeting of the Haliburton County Board of Education last Tuesday. The numbers tell a two-sided tale of restraint and falling grants, of rising costs and shifting responsibility.

It may come as a surprise to many, since boards of education, both here and in other places, are favourite targets for self-righteous politicians and indignant taxpayers, but the local board has a respectable record of keeping cost increases as low as possible. Since 1972, the consumer price index has risen 120 percent. It now takes a little more than $226 to buy what could be had for $103 in that year. Over the same ten year period, the board's budget has risen 122.2 percent, a rate almost identical to the CPI rise. At the same time, however, provincial grant support has increased by only 65 percent. In 1972, the province picked up 51 percent of the board's budget, and local taxpayers contributed a further 47 percent. This year, provincial grants will account for just 38 percent of the budget, and local taxpayers will have to shell out 58 percent of the total. Not surprisingly, the result of this shift has been substantial increases in direct education taxes. In fact, over the last 10 years, local property owners have seen the education portion of their taxes rise by 174 percent.

Figures for the last five years provide an even more telling indication of the board's approach to budgeting and the province's approach to education financing. Since 1977, the consumer price index has risen 45.7 percent, while the board's budget has increased only 38.3 percent. But provincial grants have increased by a mere 10.2 percent over the same period. The result has been a 62.1 percent increase in education levies to Haliburton County municipalities.

The province appears committed to its policy of making local taxpayers pay for local education. And with the self confidence engendered by its majority position, it seems likely that the Davis government will forge ahead with that policy in the foreseeable future. That means rising education taxes at the local level, with levy increases that outstrip percentage increases in the board's annual budgets. And it also means the board will remain a target for the verbal barbs of local politicians and taxpayers alike.

But if there is no light on the dark horizon of rising costs and falling grants, there may at least be some comfort in comparing the situation in Haliburton County with that of other regions. Education taxes form a significant portion of local tax bills, but the total contribution of most tax payers is still relatively low compared with Metro Toronto, for example, where the average tax payer shells out almost $600 a year for education.

In Haliburton County, those kind of taxes are still a few years away.

Education week

There are many people in Haliburton County who would smile if you said that education today is fraught with problems. They would cast their eyes on the modern buildings, sophisticated equipment and university educated teachers, and they would recall the days when school meant a chilly, one room building, when learning meant mastering reading, writing and arithmetic, and when to be educated meant to have avoided the pressures of farm and sawmill and forest long enough to complete Grade 8. They would shake their heads at those who object to children riding school buses, remembering the wooden boxes perched on wooden runners pulled by horses which once took them down snowy roads to the nearest school house. They know, as perhaps many younger people do not know, that even with its weaknesses, today's educational system is far better than it was a few decades ago.

Despite the outward changes however, the effort a person must expend to acquire a formal education is at least as great today as it was in the days of one room school houses. And the need for that education is even greater. For the truth is that unless a youngster finishes high school and goes on to acquire further academic or technical training, he or she will limit employment possibilities and risk losing benefits which come with skills and knowledge. That, perhaps, is why the theme of this year's education week is 'celebrate learning'. All this week, schools in Haliburton County will be inviting parents to take part in special programs, or to spend an hour or two in classrooms, seeing the educational system in action; absorbing a little of what it is trying to accomplish.

As the theme of education week hints, the opportunity to learn is one which should be cherished. In the face of political and social problems which continue to grow, education provides the hope for solutions.

British writer H.G. Wells once claimed that "human history becomes more and more a race between education and catastrophe."

The view may be extreme, but the truth upon which it is founded deserves to be remembered during this, education week.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

We should like to thank publicly the following persons who performed so well at the Scouts' Fifth Festival of Fun: Don Wright and his students of the H.H.S.E.S. Option Band; Marina Pearsell and Melissa Stevens, along with their piano students - Mark Robinson, Melanie Duchene, Tracy Salvatore, Robert Waller, Colin Sisson, Alison Sisson, Dennis McKee, Marg Smith, Gayle Tunall and Kim Brown; Bill Gliddon and his students of the Victoria Street school choir; Heather Baayer, Lois McLaughlin, Tom Norton, and Barbara Goebel of Browndale's Tallpine School; Andy and Earl Cooper along with the members of the Haliburton Pipe Legion Band; Cathy Hummel and Irene Thurston who sang and played the piano; Maggie and Susan Milne who played the piano and clarinet; Lloyd Madill, Carmen Peters and Don White of the Carmen Peters' Band; and Boyd Carr, Gerry Feltham, Jim Hamilton, Jack Hill, Keith Hill, Russel Baker, Ron Little and Burt Smith of the Lochlin Sour Notes. A special thank you goes also to Lennie Salvatore - the festival's M.C.; Joan Fennell, Audrey Heywood and Mildred Hill who helped with the typing of the programme; Wilson McElwain, Garnet Sedgwick, Babe Burk and Jack McDonagh who helped to prepare and clean up the school gyms; Karen Bannister who helped with the refreshments; and finally, the members of the Scouting groups who helped with promoting the event. Because of the excellent talent of the many performers, and all those who assisted, the festival provided an evening of very good entertainment to the hundreds of visitors.

Considering the large attendance and the many favourable comments, the Festival of Fun continues to be a very popular county event. Haliburton County has an abundance of talent. The festival provides an opportunity for its many artists to perform in public. However, if the festival is to continue as an annual occurrence, then it will need volunteers to serve on its committee.

The Festival of Fun has three main objectives, namely: (1) to provide an opportunity for individuals and groups within Haliburton County to express their respective talent to the residents of the county; (2) to bridge the "gap" between the young and the elderly by bringing them together at little or no expense in an evening of good entertainment and (3) to receive donations for a worthy county charity. The total proceeds this year amounted to $300. This amount will be presented to the Haliburton Chapter of the Ontario Association for Children with Learning Disabilities.

As others see it

It is too easy for us, living the soft life here in Canada, to forget that 80 per cent of the world's people are politically oppressed and physically starving.

We have the delightful privilege of worrying about who should write our constitution, whether we should elect majority or minority governments, whether one part of the country is fairly represented in our parliament compared to another.

So it should be. But unfortunately it is not like that most places.

The two young Central Americans who came to Caledon last week should have been a breath of conscience in the stuffiness of our isolationism. The brutality they described - and worse - is, whether we like it or not, the day-to-day diet of much of this poor battered planet. Man's inhumanity to man as a result of greed could well be classed the major problem of our time.

Such problems have a disturbing tendency to come home to roost uncomfortably close by. If we turn our backs on the plight of others we deceive ourselves, as well as deluding ourselves that we're completely innocent.

We are involved. Canadian companies co-operate with those government, perhaps not exploiting their workers as badly as others but still supporting the powers that be economically through taxes, foreign exchange and more often than not, outright bribery. (Heavy 'tips' or bribes to government officials are a way of life in the Third World. Most places it's impossible to do business without paying them.)

And we, as people, support a system right here at home which has voracious appetites: it uses far more than our share of the world's resources.

We are too prone to relax and munch on snacks while watching the game (on the ice or in the House) on television, forgetting that over half the world's population have too little to eat, unsanitary drinking water, no electricity...and many live in fear for their lives, just for wanting a little bit of freedom and dignity.

Acceptance of the principle that everyone has as much right as the next person to earn a lifestyle equal to ours, without being thwarted by armed assistance from superpowers with a vested interest in maintaining a convenient status quo, would go a long way to helping out planetary neighbours achieve dignity. Letters to that effect, directed to the UN Human Rights Commission in Geneva, would go even further.

W. Alvin Kaye a man who was well known in the Haliburton area, died at the Cobourg and District General Hospital on Tuesday, April 21, 1981. Mr. Kaye, who lived near Cobourg, had suffered a stroke some days previous to his death. He was in his 84th year. It was in 1937 that the beginnings of another career began for Alvin Kaye. He bought property in Haliburton, on Koshlong Lake, for a young people's camp. From this grew Camp Lagakelo, which opened in 1938. The camp grew rapidly and eventually 200 campers came there during the summer months and Mr. Kaye supervised a staff of 60. In 1941 he had left teaching and for awhile sold insurance as he developed the camp. In 1952, the highly successful camp venture was sold to the Y.M.C.A. of Hamilton. Following this Mr. Kaye took over an old charcoal plant which had belonged to the Standard Chemical Company at Donald, near Haliburton. It was here that Mr. Kaye opened a wood-working business, designing and manufacturing what was known as the K-Built Plant Wall cottage, a popular type of prefabricated building. This successful business put him in the forefront of prefabricated building manufacturing. In 1965 he closed out his business at Donald and retired. Later on he moved to Cobourg. He was the beloved husband of Mildred Elizabeth Pickett of R.R.5, Cobourg and the late Lillian Richards, and the father of Garth A. of Scarborough, Lois (Mrs. W. Henderson) of Dorville, Scotland and Kelvin W. of Cambridge. He was the brother of Mrs. Ruth Darling of Bracebridge and Hilda Kove of Kirkland Lake.

After working for 28 years for Curry Motors Limited at their Auto Body Shop in Haliburton, Dan Dewey, who resides at Gooderham, started on his road to retirement last week. Dan, who is well known in the area, takes with him many memories from the many years that he has worked on various types of vehicles in his body shop work. He has also seen many changes in auto body work since he first started to work for Curry Motors at their former locations. Curry Motors and their employees held a luncheon and retirement party for Mr. Dewey at Deer Lodge last Thursday. He was presented with many fine gifts. We join with his many friends to wish him good health and prosperity during his retirement years that lie ahead.

The Haliburton County Ladies Softball Association will be sponsoring a mechanics, rule interpretation and umpires clinic this coming Saturday, May 9 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Haliburton High School. All baseball players, coaches and umpires are invited to attend.

Municipal employees were busy recently cleaning up the debris at the Rotary Park and Beach at Haliburton. A great deal of litter accumulates here during the winter months and the men did a first class job of putting it back in shape for the upcoming summer months with all of its activities. The entire shoreline was raked and the old wood and logs that drifted into shore were taken away. Beach sand was drawn in by the truck load earlier on in the year and this should prove to be quite an improvement for those who will be using the beach for swimming this coming summer.

Even though the Stanley Cup playoffs are far from being over many of the hockey players are through until next fall. We notice that Walt McKecknie of the Colorado Rockies of the National Hockey League has returned to spend the summer months at his home at Eagle Lake and Bernie Nicholls who played for the Kingston Canadiens in the Junior "A", O.H.A. League has returned to spend the summer at his home at West Guilford.

Today (Wednesday, May 6) is Kindergarten Registration at Archie Stouffer Elementary School at Minden. It will be held from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. The day set for Kindergarten Registration at the Victoria Street School in Haliburton is Friday, May 8th from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m.

The golf season got underway at the PineStone Inn and Country Club on Friday, May 1st. It was the official opening of the 1981 season.

I was talking to some people just the other day and they remarked that it would seem that there is no end in sight of people knocking on their door canvassing for the various organizations. We have to admit that the spring of the year seems to be the worst time for people looking for donations. Since February, people have been collecting for the Heart Fund, Easter Seal Appeal, Mentally Retarded Association, Red Cross Society, Cancer Society, Salvation Army Red Shield Appeal and we could go on and on. It seems to be the opinion of some people that the financial needs of these worthy organizations should be put on the tax bills and in that way everyone would pay their share instead of the same old faithful few being asked to contribute each and every year. It's certainly something to think about. It seems like a miracle that all of these various organizations reach their objectives.

Joe Hayes of Dallas, Texas will be the guest speaker when the Full Gospel Businessmen's Fellowship in Canada hold their monthly dinner meeting at the Royal Canadian Legion Hall in Haliburton on Friday, evening, May 15th at 7:00 p.m. Joe Hayes should prove to be a very interesting speaker as he has a long list of major accomplishments during his career in the martial arts world, one being voted into the Black Belt Hall of Fame in 1972. Also in 1972 he was ranked in the top ten U.S. Karate Fighters for the fifth consecutive year. In 1976 it was discovered that Joe had a cracked disc and other back complications, and had to have major surgery. While in hospital, God used television to speak to him through Pat Robertson on the 700 Club and Joe accepted Jesus into his heart.

Pic of the Past

Our thanks go out this week to Mrs. Lloyd Sedgwick of Lutterworth Estates at Minden for giving us permission to publish this most interesting photo in this week's Pic of the Past. This picture which was taken in 1929 shows the buzz saw which was owned and operated by Leslie Hagan, of Gelert in operation on the property at Will Hamiltons' at South Lake near Minden, Ontario. Mr. Hagan was kept busy as he went around cutting the winters wood for the residents for miles around. As you can see by this photo the wood cutting machinery was pulled around by a team of horses.

Bill Smiley

Once again, I must confront that spectre that looms before quite a few old guys like me. To retire and live on beans and dog food, or to step once more into the breach, dear friends, and not become an old dog, licking its wounds and less favorable parts, waiting for the final stiffening into extinction.

Well, that was a fairly literary first paragraph, anyway, with a reference to a spectre, Henry V, and old dogs, perhaps loved, but increasingly useless, and ready for a shot through the head. I could get the last named, at times, from my wife, if we kept a gun in the house. That's one reason we don't. Another is that I decided, some years ago, after shooting a black squirrel while thinking it was a black bear, that I wasn't cut out to be a hunter and bring home the game, unless it happened to be chess, or dominoes, or Scrabble.

Secondly, I am not an old dog, though I would love to be. I always wanted to be a devilish old dog, twitching my moustaches at the ladies, pouring a sherry for a fascinating widow in a suave flat overlooking Kensington Gardens at the age of 82, sipping an aperitif in the great square in decaying Venice when I was 88. 'Twas was not to be. I am just a youngish old dog, to whom no widow under the age of 59 (her version) would give a second look. Unless she was really broke.

In the third case, I am not young King Hal of Tudor times, looking for breaches to go into once more. I have been in too many breaches (note to proof-reader; that is not britches) already. The next breach I leap into will be the last one: that hole in the ground.

And in the fourth place, I ain't afraid of no spectres. That's what Scrooge said, and you know what happened to him.

This retirement gig is not that simple. First of all, that inflation has you by the short and curly. All my friends who are retired cry: "Don't do it!" as though I were a 17-year-old about to take my first drink or something even more sinful, according to the society in which we grew up.

They claim that they can eat steak only once a week, that they haven't even the money for one of Freddy Laker's trips to England in the off-season, that they're going to have to sell their fine middle-class homes and move into some fine middle-class apartment where they don't even have any lawn to cut or snow to shovel. It's a horrible prospect.

Most of these old friends are in a pitiable state. They have decaying discs, heart problems, high blood pressure, the gout, the crud, or some other debilitating nightmare. Yet they're all in their early sixties. My father-in-law, 89, would call them "boys".

Well, I don't think I'll be one of the boys, at least not for another year. I am a mere sixty years old. I am as sound in wind and limb as a man of thirty. Forty years ago,

I limped a bit with the gout. But that is merely a sign of good living, and I limp rather proudly. I scarcely need glasses, except to tie my tie, or hit an ash-tray. I can't hear much of what the students say, but my lip-reading is excellent, and I don't want to hear what they say, anyway. They've been giving the wrong answer for years.

I have a partial plate, but I lithp through it only when we have hamburger in the cafeteria and it gets a bit clogged -- no more than three or four days a week.

All in all, a fine specimen of homo mithancropus, whatever that means. I wouldn't want to translate it, because some 89-year-old Latin teacher (we don't teach Latin any more) would jump on me and tell me I was either a depressed ape or a melancholy man. That I don't need. I feel like either, at given times. But then my conscience assails me. I think of all those young fellows of 40 or 45, whom I am keeping out of a department head's job, and I pretty nearly break down.

Until I recall the fact that their wives are working, they have just bought a new van or boat, and they are making more money than I. Then I decide to stay another year, and I break up, chuckling at the grinding of teeth, the silent curses in the night, the visions of their child having to work during his/her summer vacation to make it through college.

"Why doesn't the old nit quit? He can't reach anyone. His department is the worst run in the province. He has no idea how to organize his budget. He doesn't know what a budget is. He's not sure whether it's fall term or spring term. And what is really maddening, he doesn't care." And they're right, or partially so.

Well, I've decided. I'll stay until at least Christmas. I'll quit then, suddenly, and leave somebody else to sort out the mess. And some mess. I have keys to locks that don't work. I have filing-cases full of material taught in 1914, that have never been opened, because the keys are lost.

And if my wife doesn't stop spending money on decorating. I'll re-run this column in '88. Why doesn't Trudeau solve it by appointing me to the Senate?

Small Business Workshop

Did you ever wonder about the apparently large number of business failures that occur in our area. To be classified as a "Business Failure" you need not go bankrupt, you need only fail to accomplish what the business was intended to do when it was established. With that as a measure, there certainly are a great number who fall into the "failing" category, while yet still many others do extremely well at similar endeavours.

There is no denying that Haliburton has its own set of problems that can make running a business difficult. It also has its own unique opportunities too. One of the prime reasons we believe that businesses run into difficulty here is not the local environment but the business knowledge of many of those involved. Because there are limited opportunities for salaried employment in the county great numbers enter into independent business who would otherwise be more inclined to work for someone else. Their knowledge of their particular field of endeavour may be considerable, but if they lack in business operation expertise it could well get them into difficulty.

The Economic Development Commission has been successful in having a workshop scheduled for Haliburton that has gained considerable acclaim for the Ministry of Industry and Tourism. Business consultant Bob Pollock who will run the seminar tells us that they have been asked to return to some communities three and four times with this crash course on "Starting a Small Business". It is tightly condensed into four hours and therefore must start right on time -- at 7:00 p.m. on Monday, May 11 at the PineStone Inn. There is no charge to attend but in order to be sure that we have arranged adequate seating for everyone please call the Chamber of Commerce and let us know if you plan to attend at 286-1760.

The agenda will be of value to not only those contemplating a small business, but those who are already into it and needing assistance coping with the various aspects of it. It could mean the difference between the success or failure of your business enterprise.

What's New!

There are so many new and exciting developments around the county this year that we are getting behind on reporting them to you. There are also a number of businesses that have just been sold within the last few weeks and we will be reporting on those as the new owners take possession.

The coming of a great Slide Ride to Haliburton Village is, of course, the most exciting. Not only will the ride itself become a major draw to our area but the spin-off from the major promotional campaign being planned can only benefit all of us in the Highlands. We congratulate Steve Bowskill on putting this project together and encourage all of you to support it in every way.

There are many changes taking place now in Minden with existing businesses re-locating and a few new ones coming on the scene. You may also note a new name for the Minden Bake Shop - "Mandy's" but the ownership still rests with Lorna Hicks who has acquired such a fine reputation for not only her baked goods but her lunches and snacks.

Out on the by-pass "Maggies", under the new ownership of the fieldings, has been all spruced up and opened for the season. Across the road the Schnitzel House is almost ready to open their all new dining room. The decor is truly elegant and features a peaceful view out over the patio and into the hills to the rear of the restaurant. We are sorry to hear that owner Otto Homestead has been in hospital and we hope that he has a speedy recovery, and the anticipated opening of this new facility is not unduly delayed.

Queen's Park Report

Since my return to Queen's Park, my colleagues and I have been receiving pleas from many area farmers for some form of action that would assist them during these difficult times.

On the first full day of the Legislature, my colleague and Agricultural Critic, Jack Riddell, M.P.P., asked that the regular business of the House be set aside to discuss the problems facing farmers, as this was of urgent public importance.

The refusal of the Minister of Agriculture and Food to participate in an emergency debate in the financial crisis facing Ontario's farming community, clearly shows that the Ontario government has a total lack of concern regarding this most serious problem. To simply state that high interest rates are a federal responsibility ignores the fact that Ontario is one of the few provinces in the country not to have instituted an extensive and well used set of low interest programs for its farmers.

The facts of farming life are extremely chilling. In 1980, farm bankruptcies increased 91 per cent over the previous year and, for the first three months of this year, bankruptcies increased 77 per cent over the same period last year.

Furthermore, the Ontario Federation of Agriculture estimates that for every farm bankruptcy recorded in Ontario, there are at least 10 other farmers who decide to get off the land while they still have some equity left in the business.

As farmers are leaving the land in frustration or are forced off by bankruptcy, all too often that land is being sold to foreign investors who have no intention within the foreseeable future of coming to this country to farm the land, or to developers who will seek other ways than farming of making a profit off the land. This can only have a negative effect on the provincial economy, considering that the farm community not only provides us with food for domestic consumption, but also provides employment for thousands of people.

I firmly believe that this government, must introduce an immediate emergency interest program to prevent further farm bankruptcies. The farming industry in Ontario needs assistance now and if the Minister of Agriculture is not prepared to accept the responsibility for initiating such a program, then he should move over and make room for someone else.

Report from Parliament

by Bill Scott, MP

The Quebec government has announced that it plans to extend the right to vote in municipal and provincial elections to prisoners in provincial jails.

If such a law is enacted by the Quebec legislature it will amount to a shocking disregard of convention and tradition, and can only detract from the sanctity of the secret ballot franchise extended to most adult Canadians.

Voting in Canadian elections is not an automatic right, enjoyed by everyone without condition. It is a privilege that is extended to those people in our society who meet certain reasonable criteria, such as age, citizenship, mental competence, and in most political jurisdictions there are minimum residency requirements.

It is fundamental to Canadian law and tradition that convicted felons serving prison sentences lose certain rights enjoyed by other citizens, including the right to vote.

Voting regulations, and the machinery to administer and validate the balloting process, are complex enough already. The problems associated with extending the franchise to prison inmates would further complicate the process and add considerably to the expense.

There would be the problems of determining which constituency an inmate would vote in, and whether he or she could meet residency requirements. There would be the problems of ensuring security and anonymity, and of assigning extra staff to supervise balloting in prisons.

There is one aspect of this idea of allowing burton, accepted in the amount of $12,532, will be decreased by adjustment of $2,919, for a net 1981 payment of $9,613.

The Haliburton Highlands water levels committee will be comprised of the following members for the year 1981: Wm. Scott M.P., John Eakins M.P.P., Murray Balkwill, Don Fisher, Phil Rimington, Bev Robinson, Bob Stinson, J. G. Strickland, and from County Council Warden Murray Fearney and Robert Vick.

By-law No. 1135, a by-law for the purpose of regulating benefits for non-union employees of the Provisional County of Haliburton, was passed.

By-law 1136, a by-law for the purpose of consenting to the passing of a by-law to stop up, close and convey part of the original allowance for road between Concessions 9 and 10, Lots 27, 28 and 29, Township of Dysart, was also passed.

Abe Syed, planner with the Ministry of Housing, and John Richardson of the Ministry of Natural Resources attended council to provide details in discussion on policy for closing shoreline allowances. Warden Fearney read a letter written in 1950 by Premier Leslie Frost setting out facts and policies relative to reservations around lakes and navigable waters for road purposes, and Mr. Syed will check with the legal department on interpretation and any possible revisions to procedures.

Girls smash records at HHSS field day

Seven new records were set by girls while boys records unchanged

Marla MacNaull broke three records

It may or may not be a sign of the times, but when it came to record breaking performances at the annual Haliburton Highlands Secondary School track meet last Wednesday, the day belonged to the girls. A total of seven records were set in girls' events, while no existing boys' records were challenged.

Top athlete of the day was Marla MacNaull, who set records of 29:5, 1:07.5 and 2:52.3 in the Junior girls 200 metre, 400 metre and 800 metre races respectively, and amassed 23 points to take the championship in her division. Runner-up in the overall competition among Junior girls was Signe Tashlin, who also set a record of 4.83 metres in the long jump.

Jackie Miller also set a record in the Junior girls shot put with a toss of 8.87 metres.

In Midget girls competition, Kathy Shipley's winning discus toss of 22.06 metres set a new record.

Overall winner in the division, with a total of 16 points, was Karen Gillespie, while Sandi Walker was a close second with 15 points.

The Senior girls division was dominated by Margie Newton, who set a record of 6.22.2 in the 1500 metre run and wound up with 25 points overall. In second spot in the division, with 22 points for the day, was Pam Iles.

In Midget boys competition Barry Boice and Kevin Warburton tied for the overall championship with 20 points each, while runner-up Scott Mitchell had a total of 17 points for the day.

Mike Hatkoski came up with 23 points to win the Junior boys competition, while runners-up Terry Al-lore and Scott Rae each garnered 15 points.

The Senior boys championship went to Tony Scheffee who amassed 21 points. Ted Pilcher finished in second spot with 17 points. Complete results are as follows:

Bancroft Pacers Club sponsors first fun run

Now that spring is here and local runners are once again pounding pavement free of ice and snow, it's time to begin thinking about testing those legs in competition. And the Bancroft Pacers Track Club are providing an opportunity, to do just that with a fun run slated for next Saturday, May 16.

Races will be run over an eight kilometre course for men and a five kilometre course for women, according to a spokesman for the club.

Four classes will be up for grabs in each race; 13 years and under, 14 to 19, 20 to 39, and masters, 40 and over.

Entry forms for the races can be picked up at the Echo office this week and next.

Registration will take place in the public park behind the Bancroft Post Office beginning at nine a.m. on race day.

Children's ball league organized for summer

by Ruth Lewis

Those in attendance at the organizational meeting of the Haliburton House League Softball program on April 30 agreed that the prime purposes of this league are to have fun, both players and coaches, and secondly, to learn the necessary skills of the game.

The election of the 1981 executive was chaired by Gary McKnight, visiting council representative. Elected were: president, Nancy Brink; vice president, Walt Prime; secretary-treasurer, Ruth Lewis; and directors, Bill Hartin, Bob Fyfe, Jim Debenham.

One of the concerns voiced by Gary McKnight related to the great differences in ability within an age group. How would we cope with an advanced player who is quickly becoming bored? The motion was passed unanimously that the age levels within an age group be flexible to allow players to play at a suitable level, if the coach decides that it is in the player's best interests. This includes going down to a younger level also.

A registration fee of $2. will be charged to help defray some of the equipment costs still hanging over from last summer, and to buy any necessary equipment needed.

The following are the different age groups with the co-ordinator's name for that group. Tykes (age 4, 5, 6 year olds playing T-ball) Ruth Lewis; Novices (age 7 and 8 years old) unknown; Atoms (age 9 and 10 years old) Bob Fyfe; Peeewe (age 11 and 12 years old) Nancy Brink; Ban-tams (age 13 and 14 years old) Walt Prime; and Midgets (age 15, 16 and 17) Bill McKay.

Bill McKay is very interested in establishing a com-

MNR gives Mother Nature a hand

Stocking lakes with hatchery fish provides anglers with recreation

by Sue Cooper

When it comes to fishing, mother nature may not always be on the fisherman's side so the Minden District of the Ministry of Natural Resources (MNR) is again offering a helping hand. This year, as in the past, the local office is stocking area lakes to make sure that every angler has a chance to catch the "big one".

As part of the annual stocking operations, four MNR staff members, Wayne Wilson, Pete Latner, Steve Bowcott and Barry Walker were working in conjunction with a helicopter crew under contract fish if they can't reproduce at a rate high enough to keep the number of fish in the lake at an even level. Sometimes damaged spawning beds or other problems can reduce the number of fish which hatch annually, Wilson said.

"Stocking is a band-aid measure." While the MNR reinforces the number of fish in the lake, staff members are also involved in rebuilding spawning beds and other programs which help the fish reproduce naturally, Wilson explained.

However, the ministry does not arbitrarily judge which lakes will be stocked from year to year.

If a lake is over-stocked problems can arise with crowding and weaker fish will suffer because of greater competition for food, Wilson said.

Before stocking the MNR determines water quality in the lake, the demand for fish and the best way to manage the lake. If a lake is slated for stocking it is integrated into the continual four year stocking schedule.

However, while the ministry takes care to make the stocking program as successful as possible, problems can begin when the anglers arrive at the freshly stocked lakes. Since the fish are young and recently from the hatchery they are more likely to snap at a hook, so the MNR asks fishermen not to take the young fish, Wilson said.

While stocked lake lists are available at the local district office, Wilson says anglers will catch larger fish if they ask for last year's stocked lakes lists.

'Stocking is a band-aid measure' to help stock the lakes in the entire Algonquin district.

This year alone, the MNR is planning to stock about 150,000 fish hatchery stock in area lakes, but the helicopter operation is only a part of the overall stocking program, Wilson explained on Saturday.

Since many lakes inaccessible by truck are not Working from a four-year stocking schedule, staff meet with cottage associations, study creel surveys and mail questionnaires as well as talk to fishermen and other interested individuals, before a lake is slated for stocking.

"They want us to stock every lake, every year," Wilson said. But the ministry knows the dangers in

The tube at the top left of the picture allows the fish to slide into specially designed tanks in the back of the helicopter. This fish already in the tank, keep the water swirling until the gentle vibration of the helicopter's rotors quiets them.

inaccessible to ardent fishermen, the MNR takes to the air to ensure that those lakes are stocked. Once tanks in the helicopter are filled with a prescribed number of fish, it takes off for its destination, lands on the water and releases the fish.

This year, the ministry is stocking Brook (Speckled), Rainbow and Lake Trout and Muskinonge in the district, Wilson said. Thirty-two thousand Brook Trout are being stocked by helicopter while another 4,000 were trucked to their destination; 24,000 Rainbow Trout are stocked by truck and another 10,000 are flown to the lakes in the helicopter; 11,500 Lake Trout are stocked by helicopter while the other 80,000 are trucked in and 2,000 Muskinonge are trucked to their destination, according to Wilson.

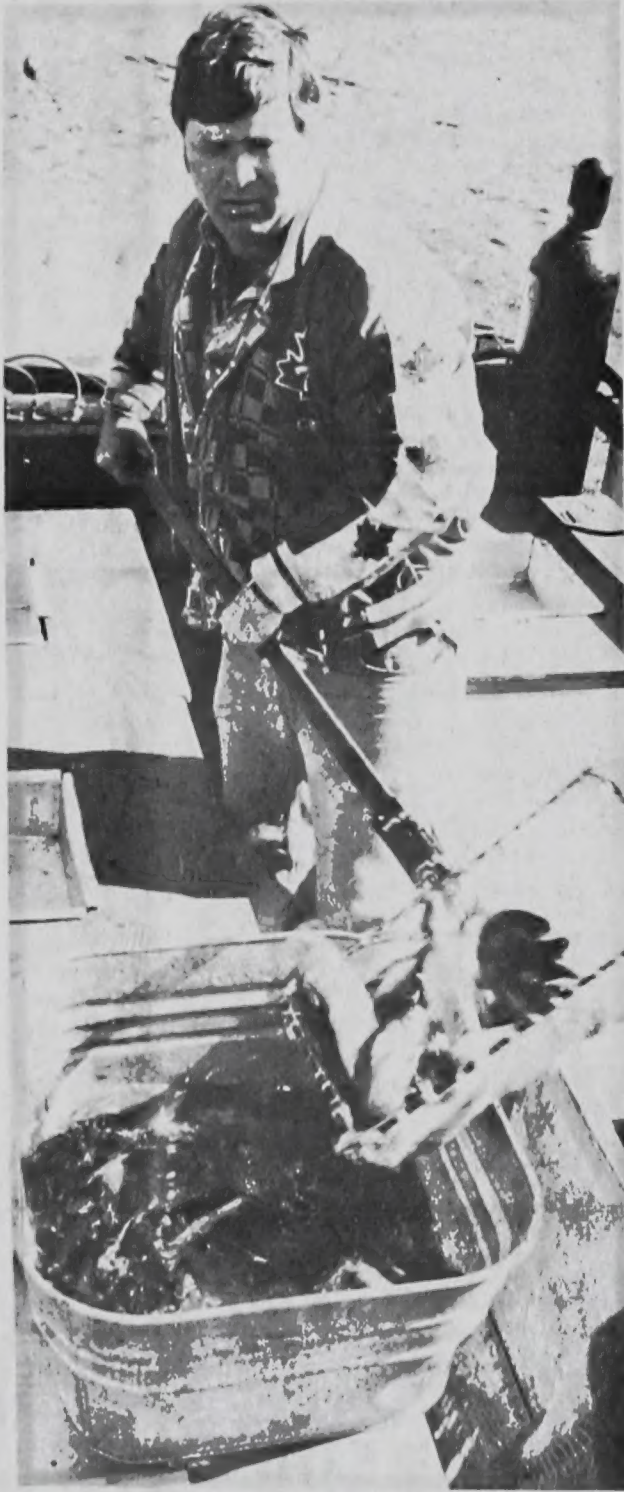

While the numbers may seem high, Wilson explains that anglers spend 1.3 to 1.5 million angler days per year fishing in the Minden district.

District staff are "stocking strictly to provide recreation," Wilson said. While the Brook and Rainbow Trout are placed in lakes that would not normally encourage the species to grow, Lake Trout are stocked as a "buffer" to protect the native population, Wilson said.

"There's heavy demand here for fishing," Wilson said. The demand also harms the existing over-stocking lakes and must study the impact the fish will have on the lakes.

"The fish we stock do have an impact on the lake," Wilson adds. Before stocking a lake the ministry looks at the size and depth of the water body and researches fishing stress on the lake to determine the number of fish to be stocked. As a general rule of thumb the ministry stocks 100 to 150 Brook and Rainbow Trout per square surface acre of water.

These Rainbow Trout seemed large as they weighed in at two to three to the pound when leaving the hatchery. Here, they are scooped out of their carrying tanks which they travelled in.

Home Support News

by Catherine Denholm

The April meeting of the Haliburton County Home Support Services began with a pot luck luncheon at the home of Doris McCann, then continued through the afternoon.

Plans were made for the "Experience/81" student who will be completing a filing and referral system at the office in Haliburton this summer. It is to be a complete system which would cover all needs and requirements for all ages, not just for seniors. The goal is to have information at the telephone so anyone with a problem, or a question about health, recreation, etc. could call the office and whoever is in the office could quickly locate the agency or person who would know that answers and pass that information to the caller. A duplication of this system could be placed in other offices or departments.

The Minden Carnarvon Senior Citizens Services is holding a "Volunteer Rally" at PineStone Inn on May 12. There will be discussion periods on the why and how of Meals on Wheels as well as a film and sing-song.

The next seniors' dinner at Sunny Rock Lodge will be on May 11 when some construction work will be completed. In the interval, the weekly Wednesday Wheels to Meals dinners are being prepared by the U.C.W. group at the Lochlin United Church - many thanks to all the members of this group!

Gloria Lemieux will be convening the Wheels to Meals program for Minden along with Isabel Harrison for Lutterworth. Please call them to make a reservation for you at Gelert Gardens - coming up soon!

There are still plans in the making for movies at the local theatres for seniors on Friday or Monday afternoons.

On Tuesday, June 2, the Home Support Services will celebrate their first anniversary. This celebration will be held at the Haliburton high school at 1:45 p.m., and 100 students of the "Family Studies" course will join in. Dr. Joy Ballard will be the guest speaker. This gathering will not only celebrate this anniversary, but will also celebrate Senior Citizens Week, will remind us of the year of the disabled (our speaker is disabled with M.S.) and will also correlate the interests of the young and old. Tickets will be available for 12 noon dinners or 4:30 dinner at both Locarno-on-the-Lake and PineStone Inn - both serving the same menu at 12 noon and 4:30. Tickets are available for all seniors in the county either from the office 457-2941 or your local senior citizens' club at a reasonable cost. The high school auditorium will hold several hundred and 400 dinner reservations can be made. Let's make it a great day. On the program also --

Haliburton music students place in Bancroft festival

Haliburton and area music students came up with some fine performances at the North Hastings Music Festival in Bancroft last week, garnering six firsts and several other top five placings.

In Grade 1 piano solo competition, Alison Sisson's mark of 87 was good enough for first place. Close behind, with 86, was Cam Kurtz, who finished in second place. Andrea Burton and Dianne Garbutt each scored 84, and tied for fourth spot, while Eion Ross and Krista Rydman earned 83 points and tied for fifth place.

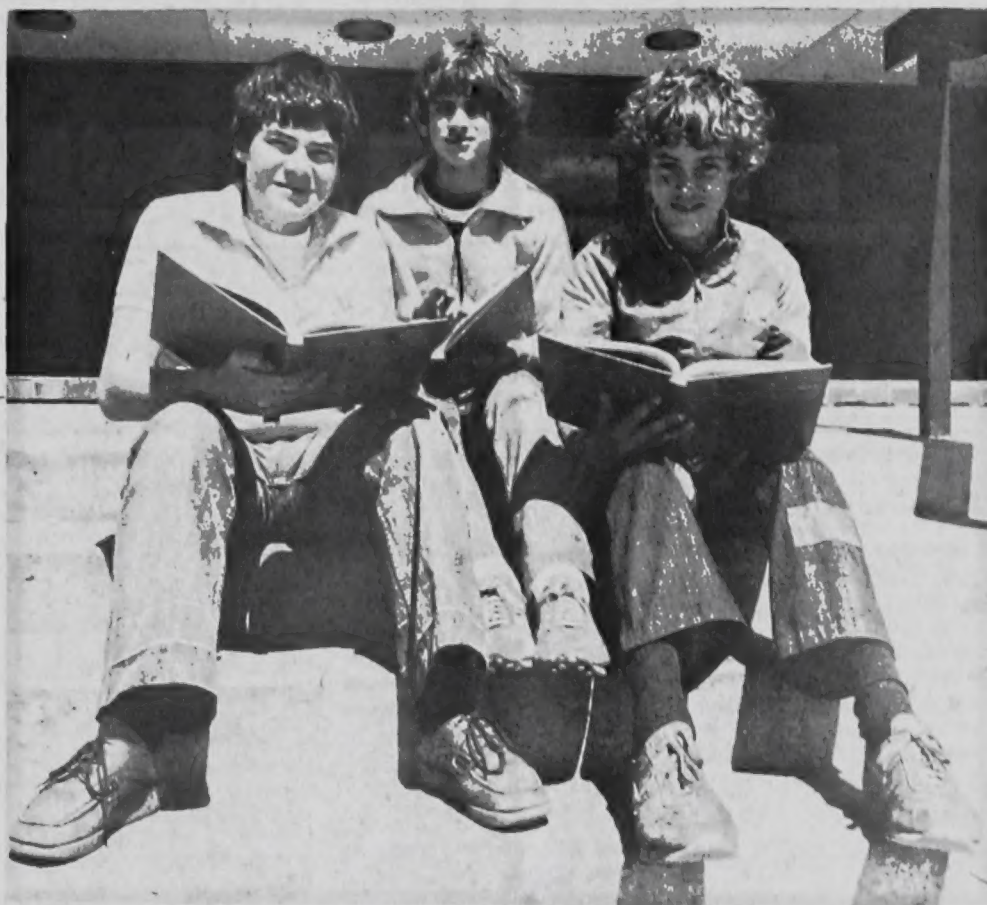

The Grade 2 piano solo competition was won by Sean Whitfield, whose performance earned an 86 from the judges.

In Grade 3 piano solo competition, Karen Sisson and Marg Smith received identical marks of 83 from the judges, and finished in a tie for third place.

In Grade 4 piano solo competition, Lisa Miller received 83 points for her performance, good enough for second place, while Shona Ross was only a point behind with 82.

Haliburton Highlands was well represented on the Campus Quiz program on Peterborough's channel 12 as the team from Haliburton Highlands Senior Elementary School won their match against Hillcrest High School of Campbellford 33-21. The three team members studied and worked hard to accomplish this feat. Showing off their determination to win are Mike Sawyer, left, Trevor Powers and Paul Milne. The team does not advance since the match was an exhibition game, only Peterborough School's are allowed to compete in the championship matches.

Babies' social development begins at an early stage

by Catherine Clark

Social development is an important aspect of growing up, even at one or two months of age. A baby's first smiles are exciting for everyone but some of the thrill is gone if you believe the smiles are due to gas! Actually an infant's smile is truly social at two to eight weeks. This is when you should know he is smiling in response to your smiling face, your voice and your touch, not his digestive tract. Blind babies smile at about the same time and in the same way as babies with vision, which indicates that more than visual stimulation is involved. Other examples of early social relations include eye contact, gurgling and cooing and touch.

At first a baby's smile will be nonselective. It serves the purpose of keeping adults close by and strengthening the attachment between him and his parents. Gradually the infant will begin to have different reactions to the people he meets. By four months he will smile and relax when one of his parents approaches. Between seven and nine months the infant may "make strange", exhibiting dramatic, negative reactions to strangers. This "stranger anxiety" varies with the individual infant and his lifestyle.

A first born baby who lives on a remote farm, for instance, will not be used to too many faces and around seven months he is likely to cry and cling to you when he does meet someone new. Strangers with glasses or beards will evoke the most negative reactions because they differ from the faces the baby knows.

"Making strange" can be annoying, especially if it lasts for more than a month, but remember that the baby is showing how attached he is to you and that he can recognize the people in his world. Crying and clinging will be reduced when either mom or dad is holding the baby so that he has a secure base. Strangers should approach slowly and quietly and there should be a limit on the number of strangers a seven to nine-month-old is introduced to at one time. A normal wariness of strangers will be evident up until about two years.

Intrinsic to the issue of stranger anxiety is attachment. At four to eight months the baby has learned that he is independent of his parents and he shows this when he pulls back when he is held and manipulates mom and dad's ears, hands and other body parts. It takes another two to five months (9 - 10 months old) for him to learn that mom and dad will come back when they leave. Up until then, infants do not grasp the idea that something still exists even though they can't see it. Out of sight, out of mind.

While a young baby is watching, hide a toy under a blanket and he will think it no longer exists. By 12 months he will have mastered the concept of "object permanence" so that he knows that the toy is under the blanket and will look for it.

A similar process is at work in the infant's relationship with you. When you walk out of the room a three-month old will forget that you exist. By nine months he has learned

Kinmount Korner

by Millie Moss

Work is continuing on the Gooderham community centre which was scheduled to be open for the Victoria Day holiday on May 18. Because of material problems the completion date has been postponed to mid-June according to Glamorgan reeve Ken Maguire. When completed the new centre will be heated by solar energy.

Happy belated birthday to Aileen Brown of Kinmount. On Monday, April 27, approximately 10 ladies stopped by in the afternoon with cake and ice cream to help Aileen celebrate her special day.

A very happy birthday is also wished for Mr. Archie Williams who celebrated his 90th on Thursday, April 30. The ladies once again stopping by, in the evening this time, with cake and ice cream.

John Magee was the lucky winner of the Norland Fire-fighters hockey pool, Saturday, April 25.

Bessie Sedgewick and Cliff Moffat of Fenelon Falls visited with Ruby Schell at her home in Kinmount, Sunday evening, April 26.

I hope to hear Mary Phillips will be feeling much better soon.

Marg Telford is in Toronto Western Hospital and is doing well following surgery.

Marguerite Curtin is still a patient in Ross Memorial Hospital but hoping to be home soon.

Grace Simmons is now home from hospital.

Vi Cook spent Monday, April 27, visiting friends in Fenelon Falls. George Simmons is also home from hospital. How about a call or a card to help cheer our shut-ins?

The Kinmount Dart Tournament was held at the Kinmount Legion, April 25, with teams participating from Haliburton, Fenelon Falls, Lindsay, Omemee, Cobocok and of course, Kinmount, making 13 teams in all. The first place team play went to Omemee and second place to Cobocok. Singles was won by Omemee. High score was won by Roger Bradmore of Cobocok with 140. High score for women, being won by Marla Berry of Cobocok with 127. The raffle was won by Alf Lees of Lindsay and the second raffle, by Jack Morrison of Haliburton. The games were well run by Albert Crego. A lunch of hot beef was served by the Legion Ladies Auxiliary and a good time was had by all.

Thanks so much to the Haliburton County Home Support Services in being thoughtful enough to send me a copy of your "goings on". I see that your Senior Celebration Day and First Anniversary will be celebrated Tuesday, June 2 with dinner tickets being sold for 12 noon and 4:30 p.m. A special afternoon program to be held at the Haliburton High School at 1:30 with guest speaker, Dr. Joy Ballard. Tickets will be on sale in May from the office or from any representative of each senior club in Haliburton County.

Euchre scores at St. Patrick's Hall in Kinmount, Tuesday evening, April 28 were ladies' high: Bertha Stata, "men's" high: Aileen Brown, ladies' low: Gladys Anderson, "men's" low:

Norma Hamilton and most lone hands: Nora Crego. Due, I suppose, to "hockey night in Canada" there were only four tables at the euchre and some of those "men" look vaguely familiar!

The beautiful big persian cat with the two white whiskers on one side, is still missing from the Warren Fountains' home. It's a true family pet and if anyone sees her around or has any information please give a call to 488-2186.

Last week I mentioned meeting Maggie and Steve Longworth. There are folks like this young couple who can repair and make like new that old wicker piece you tossed aside as finished. Steve has a complete wood-working shop in their basement at which he builds some very beautiful furniture of wood. His hope is, that some day he'll be able to get into building furniture, combining the woods and wicker together and from a side-board that sits in their living-room, you'd certainly have something different. A lovely curio cabinet is on the kitchen wall, built by Steve and he says he'd like to make them more often with the wicker sides. This couple work together but with Steve preferring the wood building, Maggie does a little more of the wicker and caning work. They have taught classes at Sir Sandford Fleming College and Maggie has also taught in her own home. I was shown a beautiful wicker cradle, baskets, vase holder, you name it and there are kitchen stools

Now, I'm sure spring has arrived! The black flies and hornets are out full force. I know the blackflies are out for I've been bitten twice and had run for my salve. Pesky little things aren't they? If one could see them it wouldn't be so bad but they bite and are gone before you know it. Oh well, one must accept the bad with the good.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed James of Belleville spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Doug Pritchard and all attended the 25th anniversary of Kinsmen at the community centre last Saturday evening.

The Big Brothers of Haliburton County are doing a terrific job but I also have to say, so is the Haliburton County Home Support Services. I received their newsletter last week and really am impressed with what has been done in the year the Support Services has been working. Not only is it what they have done in one year but what they are planning for their second year. Congratulations to all.

The 2nd chance draw at Mae's Country Mart last week was won by Jack Weekes. This draw continues until the holiday weekend in May then ceases for the summer.

Mrs. Lorne McCallum and Laurie of Lindsay visited with Mrs. Ben Harrison on the weekend.

May 7 and 8 is film time at the Rial's End Gallery. There will also be a display of older buildings in the county.

Miss Sandra Sears of Toronto visited with her parents this past weekend.

Winners at last Thursday's mini card party were: cribbage - Dianne Stevens and Jeanne Sears; Euchre - lone hands (on a cut), Johann Beattie; Marg McAfee and Mary McKelvey.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Brownridge of Scarborough were at their cottage for the weekend.

Being of a snoop nature I like answers to my questions so when I asked why we were getting our milk in Sealtest cartons, I found out that Kawartha Dairy was being hard-pressed for containers; so if you buy any Sealtest cartons you are still getting Kawartha milk. Follow me? I can hardly do that myself!

Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Cox and Mr. and Mrs. Ken Cox and daughter visited with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cowen of Phelpsston on Sunday. Mrs. Vera Cowen who has been in Phelpsston for a week returned home with them.

The libraries in the west end of the county had a book exchange last week so you will find some new books on the shelves of these libraries now.

Don't forget to phone 286-2351 for your tickets to the final curling club dance on Saturday, May 9 at the community centre starting in lots of time for you to have a nice long evening of dancing to D.J. Tommy Williamson. There is also a buffet and bar as well as prizes.

Mike Bird and Kevin Newell are home from college for the summer.

"Quick and Easy Sourdough Bread" - 2 pkgs. of dry yeast; 1 cup warm water; dissolve for about 10 minutes. Stir in 2 cups buttermilk and 1/2 cup cooking oil. Add 1 tsp. baking powder, 1/4 cup sugar, 1/2 tsp. baking soda and 1 tsp. salt. Stir in 6 or 7 cups all purpose flour. Leave in mixing bowl, cover and put in refrigerator. Use as needed; no need to let rise. Bake at 400 degrees F. about 15 minutes or until done. Makes about 24 small loaves.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave White and Matthew of Barrie also Judy Miles spent the weekend with Mrs. Jim Miles. Judy is staying as she is finished college for this spring.

The Thrift Shop at St. Paul's Parish Hall will be open from 2 p.m. - 4 p.m. this Friday, May 8.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Dawkins of Rexdale spent the weekend at their cottage.

We are finally getting results or are we? The environment minister for Ontario says that there will be an all-out effort to stop "acid rain" even in the face of U.S. apathy. He said Ontario is "not prepared to fiddle while Ontario burns."

Winners at the L.O.B.A. card party held at the Orange Hall last week were - lone hands - Pearl Cowen; Shirley Hewitt, Edna Trumball, Roy McDonald and Stewart Harrison.

Hey, there are some good T.V. programmes coming dealing with young folk. May 12, is Childhood's End (dealing with teen suicide); May 19 - Uprooted (dealing with foster care); May 26 - Away from home (children in institutes); June 2 - In this Country (immigrant children). Don't miss them for every child is special. They start at 8 p.m. and continue until 9:30 p.m.

This coming Sunday is family Sunday. It used to be Mother's Day but I guess they figured you can't have a family without a mother, so changed it. Have a happy day with your family and remember "The happiest families are those in which the children are properly spaced. About 10 feet apart!"

used in seats was originally made from bullrushes but is now done with a type of hard twisted brown paper which does not require soaking and does a beautiful job.

Maggie is presently repairing an old chair which I thought was wicker but in actuality is rush or twisted paper.

Congratulations to Mr. John Vickery, Haliburton Legion, who was the lucky winner of the Zone F4 Legion draw, held April 25. The prize being a framed one thousand dollar bill. Mr. Jack McDonald won $50 seller's prize. Al Hall gave tickets to all branches and any others he could find who would sell tickets and later supplied a bus to transport some of the folks to the dance which was held at Beaverton. A disc jockey supplied the music and was a very good success. Thanks to all the helpers.

The nominations and election of officers of the Ladies

Auxiliary, Branch 441, Canadian Legion, Kinmount, took place Wednesday, April 8 with Dagmar Simpson as president; Marie Rasmussen, secretary; Mary Hartin Sr., asst. secretary; Mary Snodden, treasurer; Marg Hockley, Sgt. at Arms; Lil Platt, 1st vice president; Ruth Menard, 2nd vice president; Vi Cook, Gladys Silver and Gerie McKay, Executive.

In the zone euchre held recently at Lindsay, Coboconk placed first, Omeme second and Kinmount, third. Jim Nightingale, although suffering a very bad cold managed to "hang in there" to call for the Legion bingo last Friday night. I hope you'll be feeling better soon, Jim.

I was sorry too, to hear Bill Lilley is also on the sick list. With the nice weather finally getting here, I hope all of you will improve and be out and around enjoying.

Have a nice day and I can still be reached at 488-2399.

Coboconk News

by Shiela Lake

Mr. and Mrs. Randy King and family of Lindsay, Mr. Bob Cruickshanks of Toronto and the Dave Alton family from Thunder Bay were Easter weekend visitors of the Harold Alton family.

In the zone euchre tournament held in the Lindsay Legion, the Coboconk first team took first. The players were Monica Hall, Jean Barkwell, Lynda Godwin and Norma Herbert. There were 26 teams in the tournament so the Coby ladies did well to come first. They will go on to play on November 21 for the regional play-offs but the location is undecided as yet.

Pat and Donna Villneff and Jeff who had been staying with her parents, the Herberts, moved to Fenelon Falls last week.

Mrs. Myrtle Faulkner has been visiting her son John and family at Peterborough.

The Patti House dining room is open for regular summer business. Their phone number is 454-8700 for take-out Chinese food or information.

The ducks on the river are nesting again and I hope you have warned your children not to disturb them. Also if you own a dog, please keep it tied - and away from our feathered friends. In a few weeks those tiny balls of fluff will emerge from the eggs and happily catch millions of pesky mosquitoes and other annoying insects. Don't let your dog or cat destroy nests or the little ducks.

Mr. and Mrs. Myles Plummer of Norland, Mr. Don Herbert, wife Lyn and family of Stouffville were Easter weekend visitors of their parents, Norma and Bob Herbert.

A bus load of Legion members attended the zone dance and supper at Beaverton last Saturday.

Mr. Ross Faulkner and sister-in-law, Mrs. A. Marles attended the fellowship dinner at Pioneer Baptist Church at Norland last week. Apparently this is a monthly dinner and looked forward to as a great time of fellowship together.

Rev. and Mrs. Burrell Cross have been away for the last two weeks visiting on the east coast.

Our sympathy goes out to the family of the late Bill Woodward who passed away last week. The Woodwards live part-way to Rosedale south of Coboconk. They live beside the Murray Wilson's and no doubt you would have noticed the lovely garden Bill had each year. He will be greatly missed by all who knew him.

Farm News and Views

Warble flies have not been eliminated yet.

During the past 10 to 15 years, there has been a marked reduction in the number of warble grubs found in slaughter cattle each spring. In the late 1960's, nearly half the animals slaughtered were infested. And many of these had large numbers of grubs in them.

In 1980 the incidence in Ontario was down to about 10 per cent.

That is just not good enough. There is a loss in profit for the packer on every infested animal slaughtered. This loss comes from the unnecessary trim of infected areas - and these areas are over the back and loin where the most expensive cuts of beef are found. As well, the entire carcass looks ragged and less appealing to the retail store buyer. And the hide is worth far less when it has holes in it.

Who pays for these losses? The farmer who produces the cattle. Remember, the buyer for the packing plant has to be smart and has to buy cattle "right". He knows a percentage of cattle may have warbles, but he can't really tell which ones for sure from his seat in the auction ring. As a result, all cattle producers may end up paying. And with the low prices being received for cattle today, no producer can afford that loss.

Right now, the warble grubs are on the backs of cattle, getting ready to leave the animals and start a whole new cycle of infestation.

Every cattle owner should check his cattle right away. If there are any warble grubs present, then treat those animals to kill the grubs before they start a new cycle in 1981.

Neither you, nor your neighbouring cattle owners, can afford to ignore these pests!

Ingoldsby Park got another boost last week when the Haliburton and District Lions' Club donated money towards the park's sign. Lion tamer Bruce O'Brien,

West Guilford News

by Carol Stamp

The West Guilford Recreation Centre are planning a Canada Day picnic on July 1, 1981 starting at 12:00 p.m. This is to be an annual event initiated to help upgrade Canadian pride in their heritage. There are many events planned for the young and old such as foot races, novelty races, swimming races, horseshoe tournament, baking contest, baseball game, fireworks display and a long distance lake swim.

It will be a fun packed day for the whole family and although refreshment stands will be set up the committee would like to encourage each family to bring their own picnic basket.

One of the major events of the day will be the Pine Lake swim. This swim will be approximately a mile long and the winner will be awarded a medal and trophy. Second and third place winners will also be awarded medallions. The trophy and medallions have been donated

OPP Report

The Minden Detachment of the OPP report the following activity from April 27 to May 3. The staff investigated six reportable motor vehicle accidents, with six people injured, two non-reportable motor vehicle accidents, 93 general occurrences which included seven break and enters, seven damage complaints, six thefts, four liquor infractions and one impaired driver.

excellent, the coffee superb and the conversation interesting, like old friends. The head count is reported as being 124, nearly a full roster and behind the arena, workmen were busy on the skyline mountain side in preparation for the coming Haliburton famous slide. What a view there will be of the slide when it is in operation. Thanks for your kindness senior citizens of Haliburton.

Friday morning the devotional period was led by the Rev. John Smith, pastor of Lakeside Baptist Church, his wife Thelma officiating at the piano. The theme continued the post crucifixion period as described in the Book of John, ch. 21. Jesus sought to learn the kind of love Peter had for him and love should dominate our lives.

Two movies were shown in the afternoon - 1. Wild fowl sanctuary, showing how content the birds of the wild are somehow knowing they are protected. Olympia National Park in the State of Washington, one of the U.S. national park system. Cranks as we are we could scarcely help noticing that a huge dead park log on which the narrator and guest were sitting would wood fuel an average Canadian family all winter and there it is potential kindling for a huge forest fire. A narrator could carry a stool or sit on the ground.

We are dismayed to learn that the supreme court of Canada has a record of only five provinces because without having had a crisis before now one saw fit to inform them that four more have been added since. It is doubtful if they can give an informed opinion let alone a judgement. The outcome of this hassle will indeed be interesting. The British North American Act being so pertinent, it could be Canada is still a colony and yet we have believed we are a democracy.

ed by a member of the committee, Mrs. Mary Jackson, honouring her late husband who was an enthusiastic swimmer and had a wish that someday there would be an annual lake swim. The trophy will be called "The Ken Sheppard Memorial Trophy".

A trophy to honour the late Clarence Bain will be presented annually to the winner of the horseshoe tournament. One of Clarence's favourite pastimes was horseshoes and he also worked very hard to make the centre a success.

The committee hopes that by celebrating Canada Day it will generate more pride especially from our young people in Confederation.

More information will be available in the near future regarding these events.

organ for the singing of some gospel hymns.

In the afternoon our bingo lovers were out in full force for a game in the main lounge.

Mr. Fred Ballard was here later in the evening to play some lively tunes on the organ for music night. Everyone always enjoys Fred's music.

Wednesday evening there was a good turnout to games night. Some assistants from Mackayville were here to play euchre, cribbage and crock-nole with our residents. Everyone thoroughly enjoyed the evening of games.

Thursday afternoon the Salvation Army of Haliburton brought an assortment of tea breads and cheese for the tea party. This was a special birthday tea for those celebrating birthdays during the month of April. Zilpah Hie and Ann Fountain were our guests of honour. The ladies presented them with a birthday cake and everyone joined together to sing happy birthday to these two very special people.

Friday was a beautiful sunny day. After lunch we loaded the bus and went for a drive. We ended up at MacDonalds in Lindsay where we had a hot caramel ice cream sundae. We had a good time singing together on the way home. Our thanks to Ray and Marie Jenkins for their help and for making our trip so enjoyable.

The draw for Snoopy and Woodstock was made last week in the dining room. Ralph Daniel and Ted Carr drew the lucky tickets. Helen Lee was the lucky winner of Woodstock and Pat Ackers was the winner of Snoopy.

Dorset News

by Phyllis Briscoe

With the continued increase in traffic and road building, our national flower is fast becoming the clover-leaf.

That warm spell we had in February and the lesser ones we have had since then sort of put us in the notion that spring was upon us, and you get the idea that you should be able to start preparing the garden. Then we have a cold spell with snow flurries and things get back into their proper perspective and one realizes that it is still April and not gardening time at all. So just relax and wait until the 24th weekend or whatever is your time to put in your plants as me things that spring is not going to be so early after all.

Numerous families had their relatives visiting over the Easter weekend. Mrs. Hazel Sears had a number of her family with her for the holiday: her son Bill of Mississauga, her daughter Norma and her husband Harold Lovegrove of Hamilton, and grandchildren Mary, Penny, Angela and Andrew McKay, also of Hamilton, and Andrew's girlfriend. So it was quite a house-full.

One day last week a group of local ladies visited The Pines and entertained the residents. Marcella McKay was at the piano and some of the ladies sang. Tea and cookies were served by the ladies and enjoyed by the residents.

Ellen and Orrie Avery are home after an extended trip to Scarborough, Oshawa and Niagara Falls. While at the Falls they visited with Orrie's brothers Gordon, Joe and Len, and helped Len celebrate his birthday. Their daughter, Eleanor Burton, her husband Russ and their family entertained them while in Scarborough and they visited Ellen's sister Feam at the Manor in Oshawa, they also visited Mrs. Stella Anderson while there.

The Frost Centre has interesting groups availing themselves of the facilities there frequently but one of the outstanding groups are 41 students and five instructors from England and Wales who have just completed a week of instruction at the centre. These students are in the sixth form which is equivalent to 12th grade in Canada and are preparing for entrance into a university. They flew into New York on Freddy Laker's economy flight and there, after a tour of the city, boarded a bus and travelled to New Haven, Conn. where they visited Yale University. Then they stopped in Salem, Mass., from where they went into Boston and saw the historic sights. Then on to Quebec City where they spent two days and nights, visited a high school where they were able to practice their French and had a discourse on housing and transport. From there they came to the Frost Centre where they took advantage of the various instructional facilities. Geology, biology, the saw mill and sugar bush were explored. Apparently, this is all quite different from anything they have back home and they have thoroughly enjoyed their stay. The object of the program is to broaden their outlook and see how the other half lives. These youngsters have been saving their pennies over a year in order to make the trip which is sponsored by the Guardian Overseas Education group. This group also sponsors a three-month study vacation in England for Canadian and American youngsters.

Thief steals merchandise from Northland Surplus

A thief made off with over $3,000 worth of merchandise from a Minden store during last Friday night.

Fishing tackle, watches and clothing were stolen from Northland Surplus on the main street of Minden.

Police believe the thief entered the store through a rear window and footprints leaving the scene are leading

Snowdon Supporters News

The Snowdon Supporters met on Wednesday, April 15, 1981. Among the topics discussed was the outcome of our Easter dance held on April 11 at Gelert Gardens. There was only one ticket not sold, and everyone in attendance had a good time. The proceeds realized for this dance were very close to the sum realized at the Valentine's dance.

The other major topic of discussion was our upcoming auction, flea market and craft sale. The time and place for this event has been confirmed. Proceeds from this activity will go towards the Snowdon Community Park project. This flea market and craft sale will open at 11 a.m. and the auction will commence at 1 p.m. Don't forget there are vendor spaces and tables for rent for people or organizations who wish to sell their goods. Further information may be obtained by contacting Carolynne Smith at 286-1879 or Jean Farrell at 286-2843. Articles are requested for the auction. The next meeting will be held at the Gelert Community Centre on Monday, May 11 at 7:30 p.m. Snowdon residents are invited to attend.

Dogs attack rabbit thief

A would-be rabbit thief was stopped short last Friday when dogs attacked him and killed two rabbits.

According to police Sharon Lynda Fritshaw looked out her window at 7:30 p.m. and saw a man walking away from her barn carrying six rabbits by the ears.

When she saw the man she commanded her dogs to attack the robber. After being bitten, the thief dropped the rabbits and limped away.

The investigation is continuing.

under the new ownership of Paul and Gwen Harrison. They said they had complete faith in their real estate agent, Paul's mother Marg Harrison, who assured them they would do well there. Welcome back to the Highlands Paul and Gwen.

Another opening this weekend was that of Kashaga Ford Sales on the former site of LaRue Motors near Haliburton. Frank Dunsford and Perry Morrison have been working throughout the winter to bring this dream to reality and we congratulate them and wish them much success. If you didn't make it to their opening drop in now and say hi.

In Haliburton Village we note that Larry VanLieshout has moved next door into part of the former Candlewood premises and the other portion is now occupied by Anne's Doll and Ceramic Studio. Anne's has been operating on Kingston Road in Toronto for a number of years quite successfully and is a welcome addition to the craft shops in our region.

Adjacent to them is the Steinburg Market which has served the village for years with fresh fruits and vegetables. Don Banks who along with his wife Jackie own Bank's Store over on Pine Street, has purchased the market from Dave Steinburg and will be opening within the next week. Dave will be working with him for awhile before completely retiring and enjoying a well deserved rest. Best of luck to Don and Jackie.

Dave Chatfield who has been involved for some time in our area with advertising and promotion sales has purchased the Framing Studio on Oak Street and is expanding the lines to include books and a number of craft items. Dave is also able to offer a number of graphic services that are valuable in creating advertising, letterheads and so on and encourages businessmen to drop in and discuss these ideas with him.

On main street, in behind the Red And White the offices formerly occupied by McGuire Tire, we are pleased to welcome a new real estate firm to town. Hawkins, Taylor and Russell is managed by Ted Saxby along with Ruth Lewis and Grant Crofts. We certainly wish them a prosperous future.

Over in Wilberforce we find Glen Storey is busy building a shop behind his Glen's 10 to 10 Variety Store which will house his new and used tire depot. There is also a new store being constructed adjacent to the L.C.B.O. there but no announcements as yet.

Snowdon Township holds April session

At its April meeting, Snowdon Township council considered the following matters:

J. Newson approached council regarding the possibility of applying for an amendment to the township zoning by-law, as a parcel of land he proposed to sever on Lot 31, Concession 14, did not meet the requirements of Bylaw 3/78 relative to lot frontage. It was agreed by council and Newson that he would apply for severance of a parcel which traversed the depth of the lot thus creating a standard waterfront lot which would then meet the requirements of the by-law.

The reeve and councillor Simmons agreed that they would attend a meeting of Somerville Township council to be held on April 21 to discuss the proposal of Somerville Township not to renew the fire protection agreement between the two municipalities when the current agreement expires on December 31, 1981.

The clerk was instructed to forward a copy of the letter sent to the Minister of Transportation and Communications to the road committee for the county, said letter dealing with the opposition of council to the proposed transfer of Highway 519 south of Haliburton from the province to the county.

It was agreed that the tenders for the supply and application of used oil for dust layer purposes be opened at a special meeting of council to be held on April 23 and that the Ministry of Transportation and Communications be so advised.

Road voucher #3 in the amount of $22,234.57 for the month of March was approved for payment.

Under section 636 of The Municipal Act, R.S.O. 1970, as amended, a refund of $29.77 in respect of 1980 taxes paid on a certain property was authorized as the result of the conveyance of a part of the property to the provincial government, said property now being tax exempt.

Land severance application #29/81 was approved and applications no. H35/81 will be held in abeyance till further information is obtained from the applicant relative to the land retained.

General accounts in the amount of $28,755.65 and general welfare assistance in the amount of $1,339.20 for the month of March were approved.

By-law 8/81, a by-law to close, stop up and convey a portion of the original allowance for road between Lot 5, Concession A and Lot 1, Concession 2 was given first and second readings.

The clerk was directed to contact Glamorgan Township to enquire if they would agree to participate in a cost sharing agreement for the Lochlin and Ironside dump sites for the summer months at the same rates as in previous years.

A special meeting was held on April 23.

petitive team to enter into the men's league. Depending upon the number of players who come out to play Midget ball, he may be selecting a team from this group. So any boys interested in playing serious ball should take note.

Equipment is still missing so please hand in to Walt Prime at the Bank of Commerce, right away.

Registration for all but Bantam and Midget will take place Wednesday, May 13, at 7:00 p.m. at the Senior Elementary School. Cost will be $2 per player.

Bantam and Midget registration will be at the ball park next to the arena at 7:00 p.m. Cost will also be $2 per player.

The baseball programme will continue until the end of July. All games will be held on Wednesday night except for the Midgets. The date for this group has not yet been established.

Coaches are needed and anyone interested please call, Nancy Brink - 457-2222; Walt Prime - 457-1328; or Ruth Lewis - 457-2088.

A reminder to parents of T-ball players: your help is needed on the field during games. At first, almost every player needs his own friendly coach. Sometimes even the smartest guy can't remember which base is first, or what to do when the ball comes their way. The excitement is just too much! So please help.

HHSES girls win second place

Bannister and Ian Cooper. In the Junior girls division, scores were as follows: Haliburton 1, Windsor 4; Haliburton 3, White Haven 0; Haliburton 2, Harper Creek 1; Haliburton 0, Agincourt #1 4; Haliburton 7, Agincourt #2 0.

This put Haliburton in a three-way tie for second but because of their better goals for and against record they received the trophy as second place finishers and individual medallions.

The all stars chosen for each game were Melissa Creelman, Jody McKnight, Michele Harrison, Lisa Sisson and Melissa Creelman. Melissa received her second selection because of her fine play and six-goal performance against Agincourt #2. Coach Roy Scott expressed thanks to parents who provided transportation and supported the teams. He also extended congratulations to the boys and girls for their hard work and sportsmanship.

This brings to an end the school's tournaments until the fall when Haliburton will host an International Intermediate Boys and Girls Floor

Hockey Tournament. Also starting in September a recreation floor hockey league will be run for all boys and girls from Grades 4 to 8. A letter explaining more about the league will be sent home later this month. If anyone who would like to help in any way, they should contact Dennis Baker or Roy Scott.
